Parasite infestations are more frequent in humans than most of us would like to believe. According to the latest scientific data, chances are that many of us have had or will have parasites, in one form or another, during our lifetime.

Some staggering numbers from a UNICEF report on the state of the world's children determined that more than 1.3 billion people carry hookworm in their gut and 265 million people are infected with schistosomes. Whipworm infects over 1 billion people and there are a reported 1.5 billion people who have roundworms, which makes it the third most common human infection in the world.

Although many of these infestations occur in developing countries, the rate of parasitic-related disorders in North America is growing at an alarming rate. Pinworm is an extremely common nematode infestation, particularly in temperate areas such as Western Europe and North America. It was estimated by The Department of Parasitology at the University of Cambridge that the annual incidence of parasite infestation is over 200 million and we believe this to be a conservative figure. Stool samples of Caucasian children in the USA and Canada have shown incidences of infection of 30% to 80%, with similar levels in Europe.

Parasites are not restricted to the intestinal tract, but can also be found in the heart, lungs, liver, esophagus, joints, muscles, brain, the blood, the skin and even in the eyes! A human body can be a host to more than a hundred different types of parasites, ranging from microscopic ones to tapeworms that are several feet long.

You cannot see the parasites when you come in contact with them and it is very easy to become infected. For example, a person who prepares a meal of pork can carry the parasite eggs under their fingernails. The next meal that the infected person prepares will more than likely become contaminated with parasite eggs. Other people will consume the food, completely unaware of what is happening. Weeks or months later they start showing symptoms like diarrhea, itching of the anus and many other symptoms depending on what kind of infestation they have or where it's located.

According to Dr. Hermann R. Bueno, of the Royal Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene of London...

"Parasites are the missing diagnosis in the genesis of many chronic health problems, including diseases of the gastrointestinal tract and endocrine system. Most individuals would be truly amazed if they knew the extraordinarily high number of Americans who are unknowingly infected by parasites..."

Contaminated water, undercooked meats, improperly washed fruits and vegetables are just some of the common sources of parasite infestation. Transmission from pets or other infected persons is quite common. Parasites live off your body and the foods you ingest, creating toxins that sap your energy, pollute your system and lower your body's resistance to disease and stress. The overuse of antibiotics further adds to the problem since it interferes with normal intestinal flora, which can lower the body's resistance.

There are drugs available for ridding the body of parasites, but they are symptom and worm specific, with many undesirable side effects that may do more harm to the body than to the worms. An herbal blend that contains specific herbs targeted to rid the body of a variety of worms and their eggs is far more desirable than loading the system with strong poisons or chemical irritants. ParasitEX is formulated as an advanced combination of Herbs, Enzymes and Trace Minerals that target a broad range of parasites and their eggs. Taking this formula for a few weeks once or twice a year will aid the body in ridding itself of parasites and will guard against future infestation as long as sanitary and dietary guidelines are followed.

Where other formulas fall short; ParasitEX excels because it:

- ✓ Contains ingredients that stabilize the emotional aspects of an infestation;
- ✓ Affects a wide variety of parasites and their eggs;
- ✓ Is formulated for gentle, effective results;
- ✓ Helps detoxify the colon as it aids the body in ridding itself of the infestation;
- ✓ Enables a more complete release of essential oil constituents;
- ✓ Contains Enzymes and Herbs that weaken parasite cellular structure;
- ✓ Has anti-inflammatory herbs that protect the internal tissues from irritation;
- ✓ Can also be effective against viruses and some bacteria;
- ✓ Destroys protozoan infestations;
- ✓ Includes additional herbs that are proven to destroy and eliminate parasites.
- ✓ Is enhanced with Tracite fulvic minerals for a more speedy release of constituents contained in the herbs.
